Why POPArt, Why Team-build?

WHO WE ARE ...

POPArt is a theatre production company & performing arts centre, established in Johannesburg in 2011. Over the past decade, we have built a solid reputation as the city's premiere entertainment centre with everyone from Pieter Dirk Uys to Trevor Noah having popped in for a performance on our stage.

We pride ourselves in our ability to produce quality entertainment that pushes boundaries, and that speaks to a diverse audience. In addition, we provide a vital support structure to South Africa's emerging and established talent.

We #ChooseLive entertainment as our brand as we believe that good storytelling can play an essential role in improving the quality of all of our journeys - through it's ability to create and build strong communities, deepen understanding and, sometimes, quite simply it's ability to make us laugh. Live art can incite emotion, discussion and change... and this is what we are all about!

WHAT WE ARE OFFERING...

The Covid19 pandemic has seen us pivot toward taking our entertainment, training and team-building offerings online (though we can still offer these in real life if strict protocol is followed).

For our remote team building packages, we are offering two options for 1 hour interactive team entertainment on Zoom (or your preferred team platform). One hour of simply letting loose and having a laugh together, with the option of a post show facilitation with more direct outcomes.

TEAM BUILDING IS IMPORTANT BECAUSE...

Even though different people work differently, teams thrive on collaboration, contact, idea sharing and seeing different perspectives. Not having daily contact comes at a cost where problem solving can't happen quickly because relationships suffer when we don't have face to face contact time.

Team building opens the gate for accessibility, teams getting to know one another better and creating relationships that encourage approachability. Team Building can show our colleagues in a different context- a personal one that is great for relationship building- which, in turn, helps teams recognise one another's skill sets, manage and embrace change as well as find coping mechanisms in themselves and each other.

It's also a great way to alleviate frustration and bring enjoyment into the work environment.

ZOOMPROV

Laughing as a team is important - especially now.

Improv or Improv comedy shows are those think-on-your-feet, made-up-on-the-spot shows made famous by TV's "Whose Line Is It Anyway?"

An hour of laughs created just for you with games and scenes performed live by our team with suggestions from your team!

This particular offer is a performance - so don't stress if you're worried about being forced to play. The most we will ask for from our audiences is written suggestions in the chat.

We usually perform on Zoom... but should be able to integrate with your preferred team platform with enough notice and conversation/tech support.

** It's always helpful for our performers to have a bit of background on your company so that we can tailor scenes toward your day to day experiences.

COMMUNICATION, LEADERSHIP AND CHANGE MANAGEMENT FACILITATION

WHY USE THEATRE & PERFORMING ART SKILLS FOR TRAINING & FACILITATION?

The basics of the craft of acting include training in excellent communication as well as understanding human nature. The skills that an actor uses for their every day work, can quite easily be applied to challenges in the workplace. We work with industrial psychologists to design and facilitate training programs and interventions to suit a team's needs and budget.

Useful performance skills that can be applied to the workplace include:

LISTENING: Developing a skill of listening to verbal and non verbal communication from others.

RESPONDING : 'Acting is Reacting', training that assists with appropriate response to verbal and non verbal communication from others, as well as taking in and responding to changes in the environment.

COLLABORATION AND TEAM WORK: The success of an actors work hinges entirely on how they work with their team mates on stage.

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION: Basic skills to get your message across. The job of the actor is to deliver a message to an audience.

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION: Basic skills and techniques for better delivery and presentation- from making the most of your vocal apparatus to dealing with performance/ presentation anxiety.

PARTICIPATION: All of our workshop packages will require participation from team members.

LETTING GO: Acting teaches us to let go, have fun and enjoy the moment.
